

Physical Distressing

PHYSICAL DISTRESSING OPTIONS

Wood-Mode's Physical Distressing options are intended to create an aged and well-worn look reminiscent of antique furnishings. Physical Distressing is available on Cottage, Heirloom Opaque and Heirloom Stain finishes. Each package contains a specific combination of physical markings. These are complimented with special finish distressing techniques.

Physical Distressing includes dents and wear distressing, joint stress and wood split distressing, worm holes, nicks, rasping and rock distressing as indicated by the various packages. The amount of each type of distressing will vary and will be in random locations. DL (light distressing) packages will exhibit a moderate application of these characteristics while DH (heavy distressing) packages will exhibit a greater occurrence of these characteristics.

Finish Distressing includes the layering of finishes with random rub through of the predominant finish color exposing a base under color and /or the natural wood itself. All layers of rub through are protected with a clear, durable low-sheen topcoat of catalyzed finish. A glaze application further enhances the aged look. Cottage and Heirloom Stain finishes include speck distressing to complete the look.

RECOMMENDATION PRIOR TO PURCHASE:

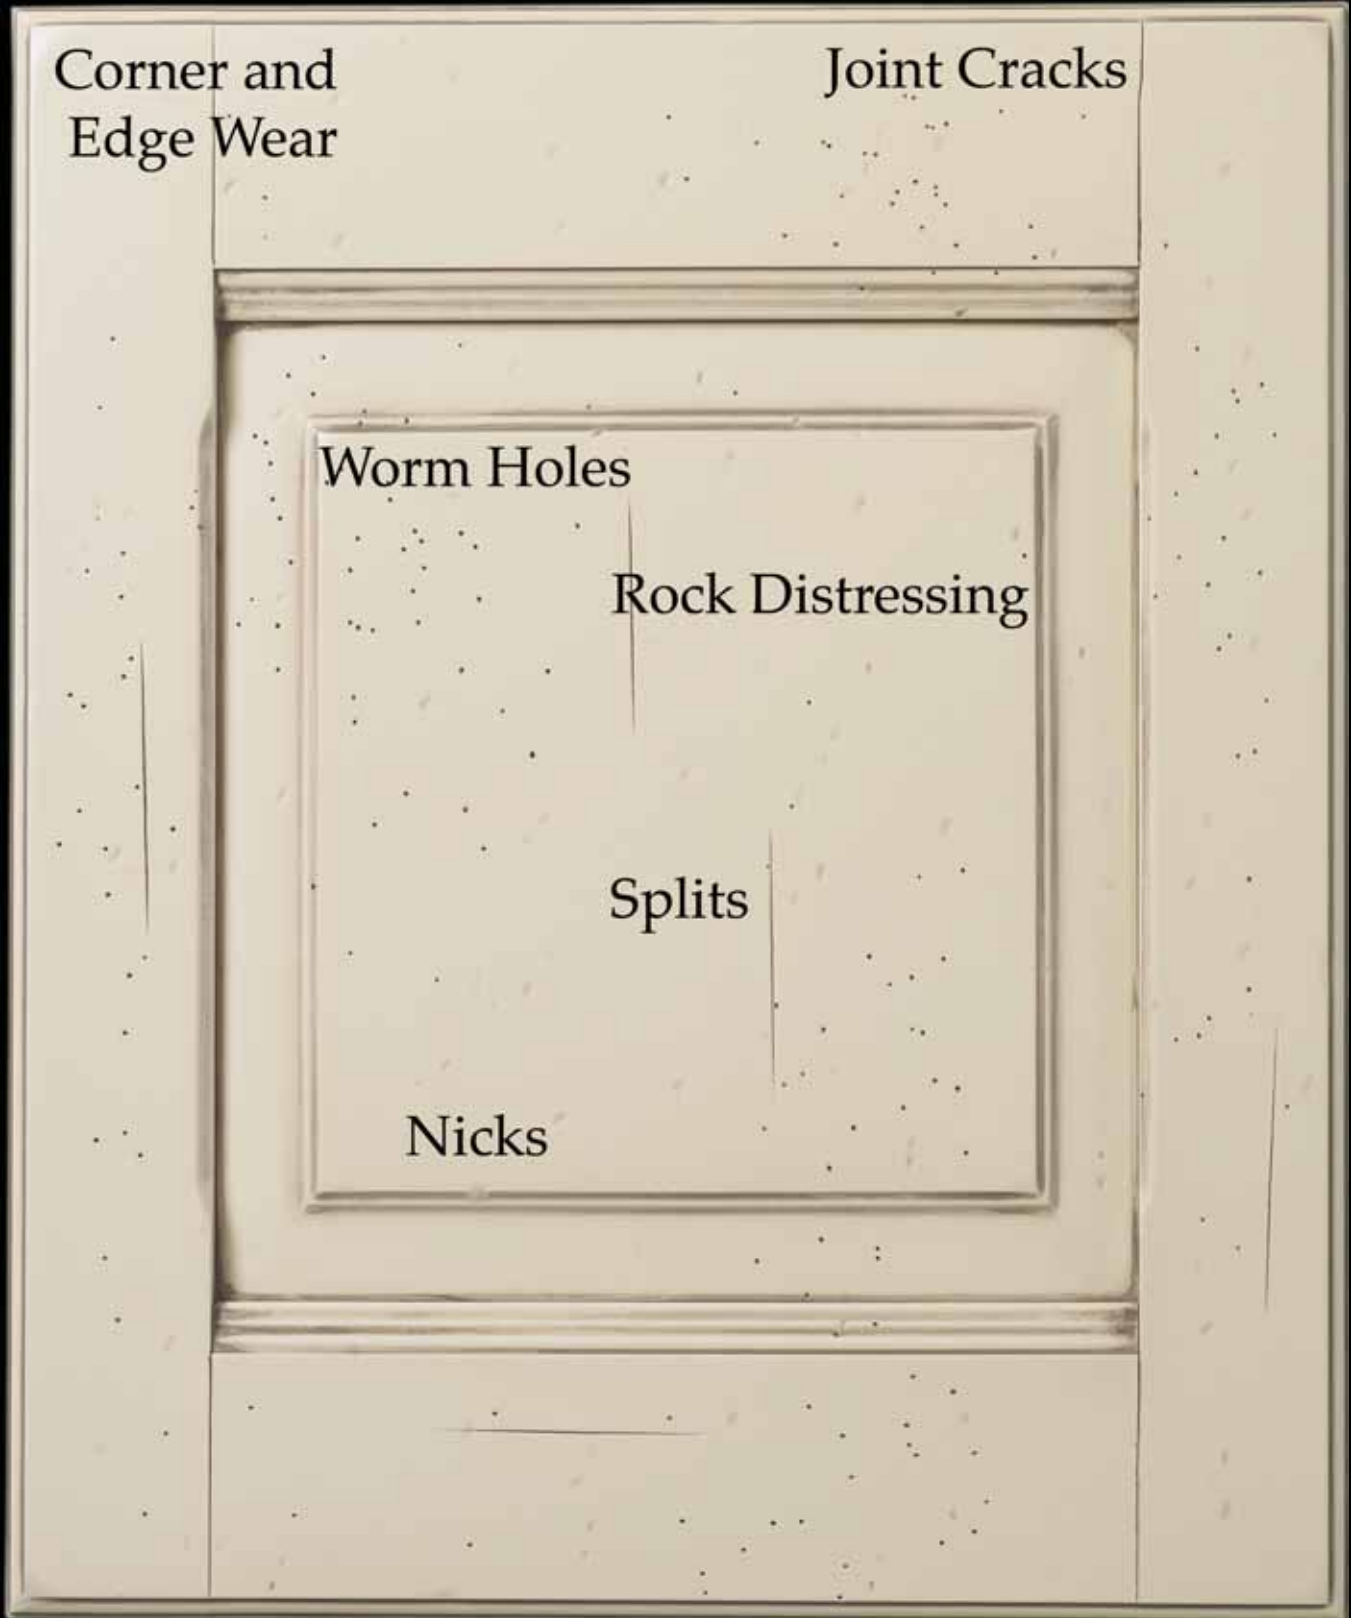

View several door styles so that you may better understand and appreciate the effect various door profiles and detailing will have on the overall appearance of physical and finish distressing of Cottage and Heirloom finishes.

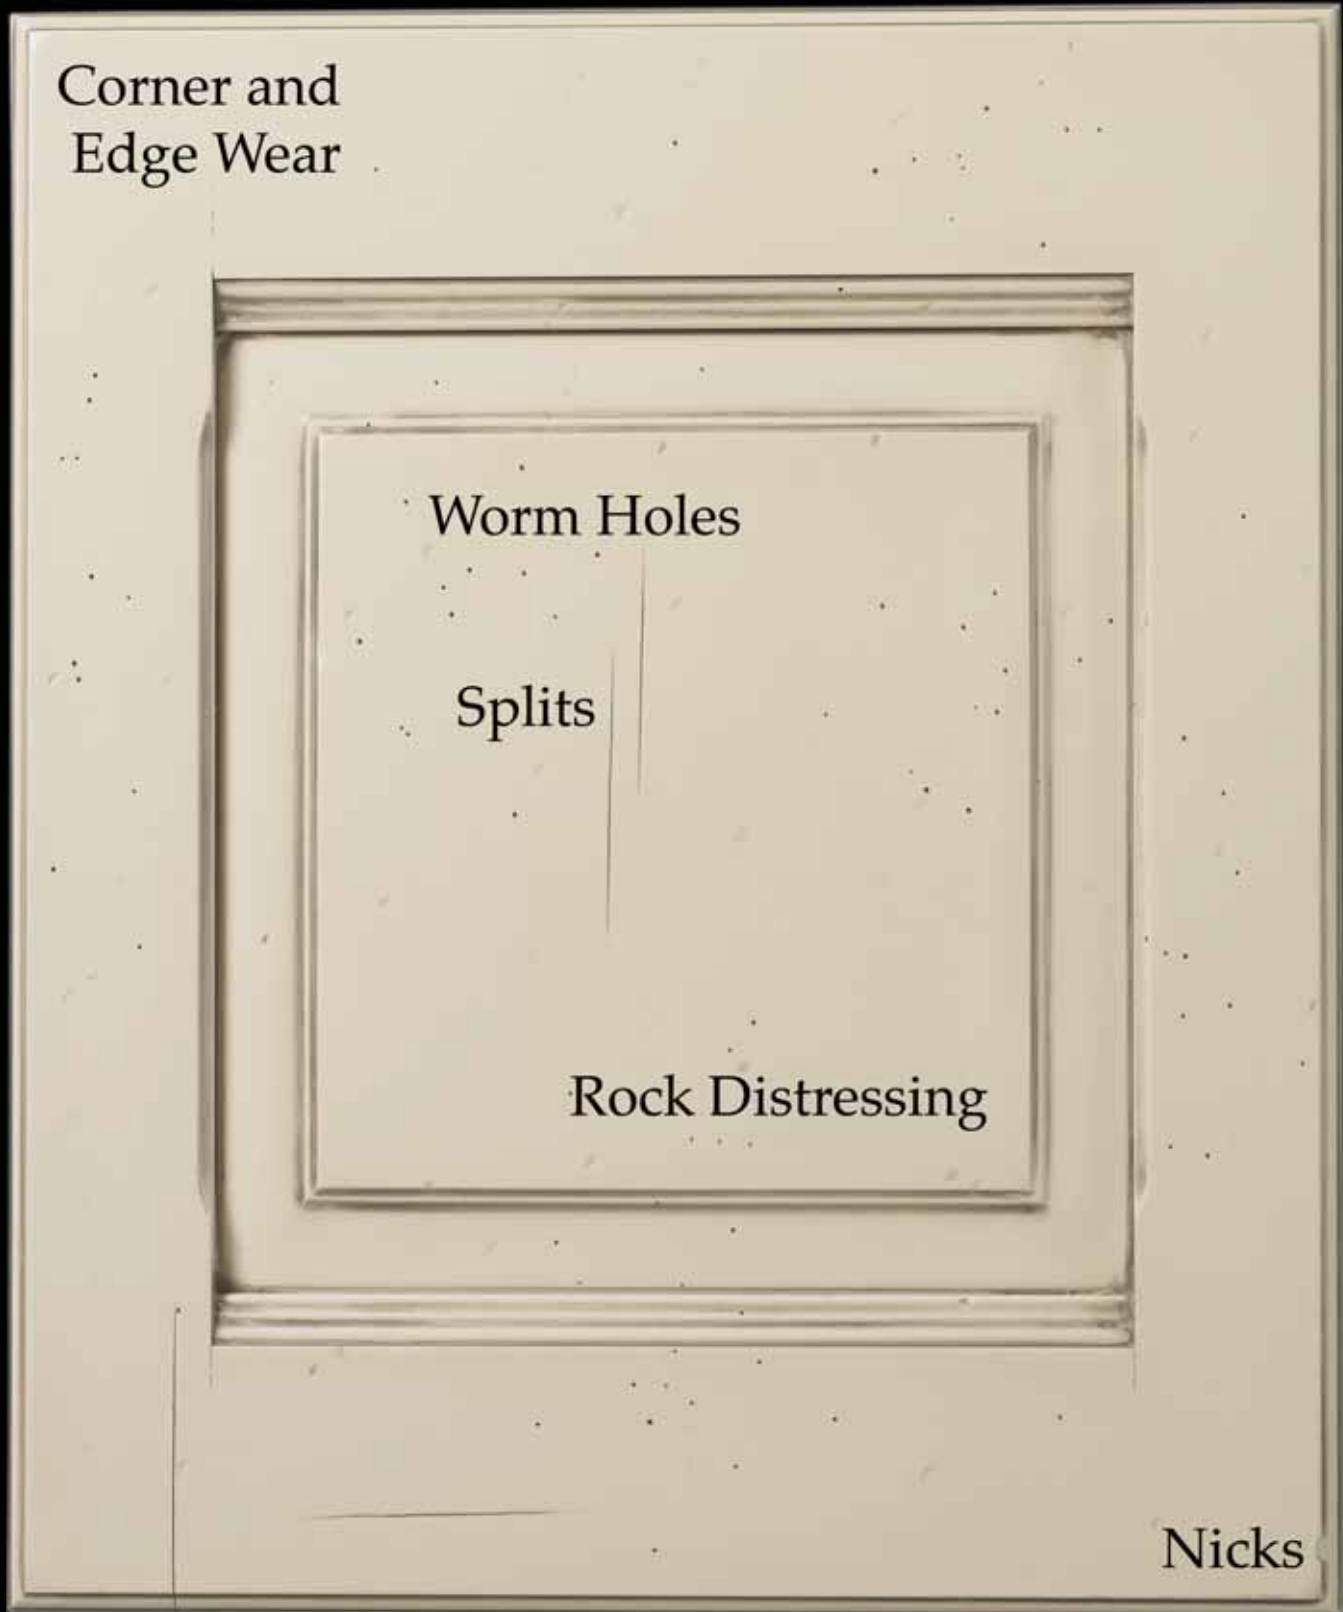

See a full sample in the style, wood and finish you are considering in order to help visualize your cabinetry selection in its completed setting.

Corner and Edge Wear

Rock Distressing

Nicks

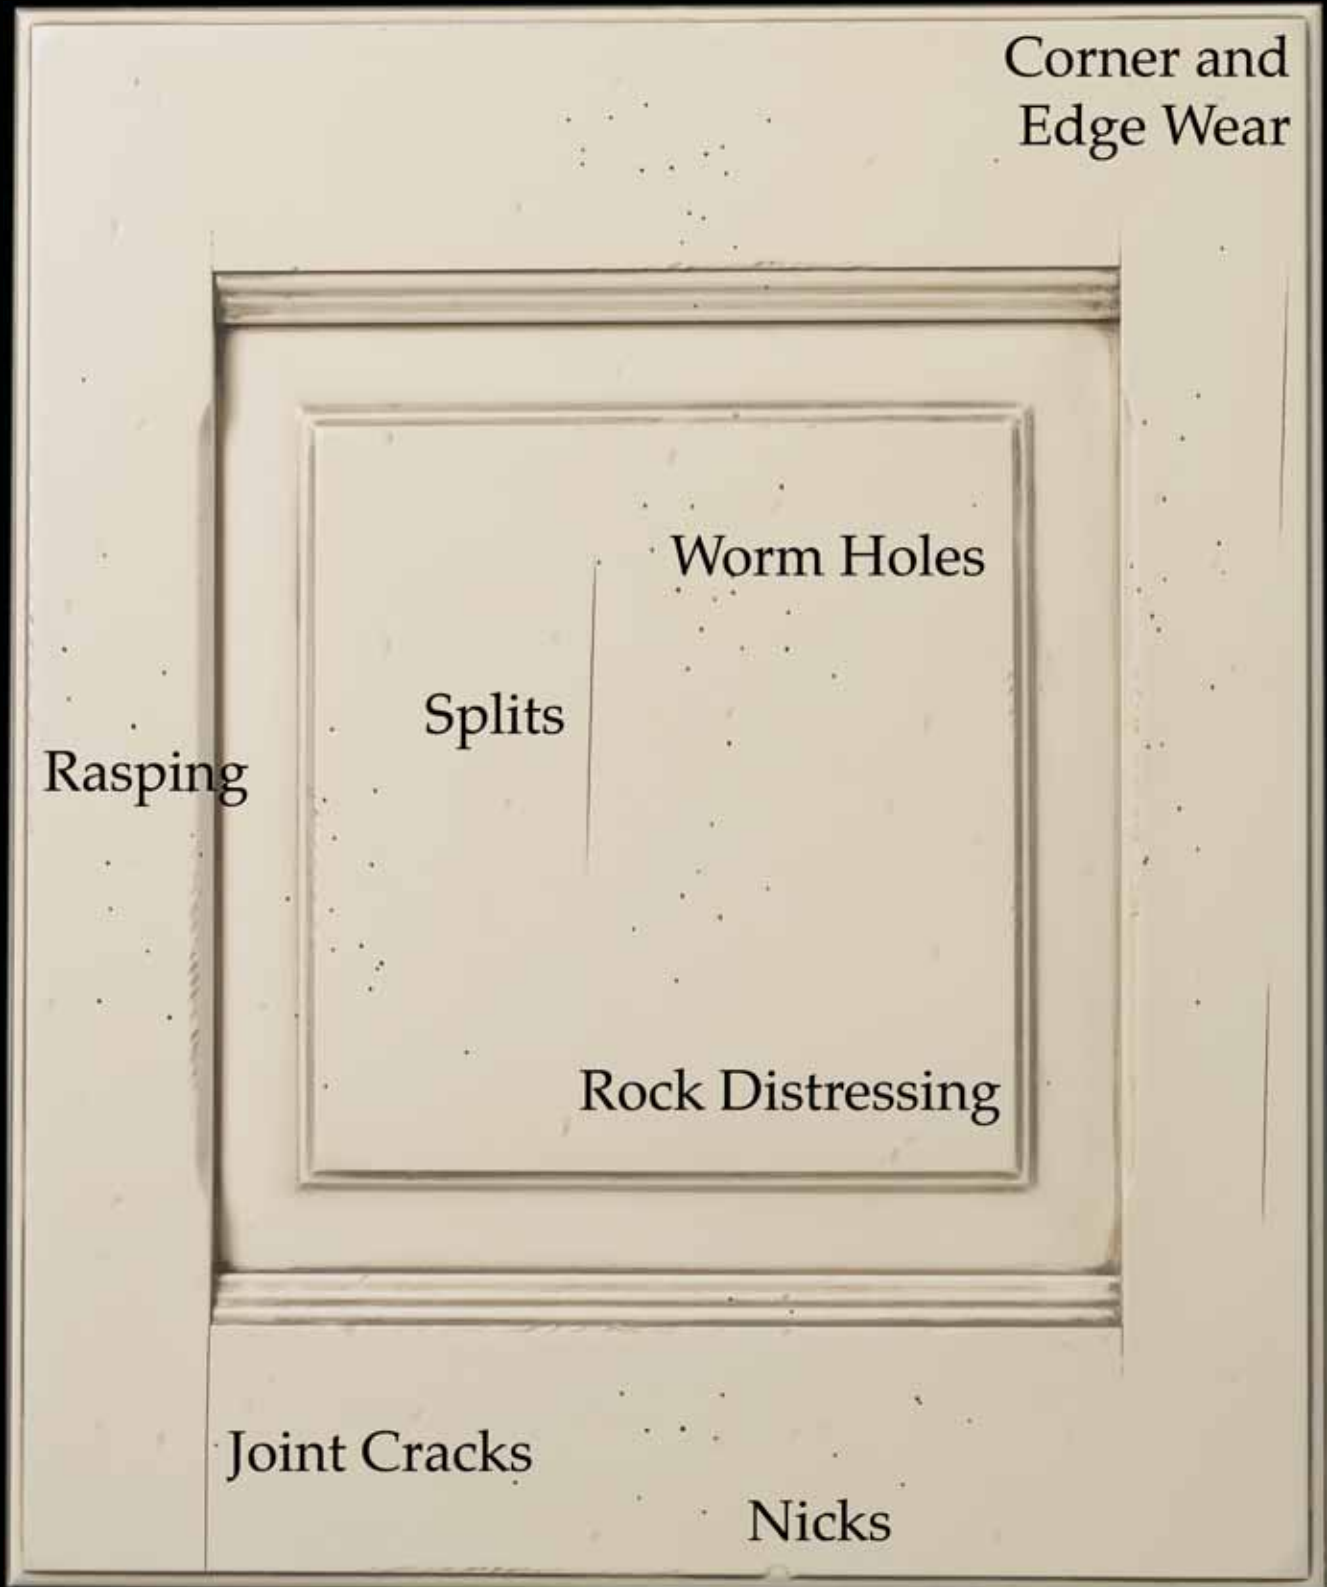

Rub Throughs

Physical Distressing

A heavy version of Distressing Package 6 is not available.

Physical Distressing

PHYSICAL DISTRESSING OPTIONS

Brookhaven's Physical Distressing options are intended to create an aged and well-worn look reminiscent of antique furnishings. Physical Distressing is available on Heirloom Opaque and Heirloom Stain finishes. Each package contains a specific combination of physical markings. These are complimented with special finish distressing techniques.

Physical Distressing includes random nicks and dents on flat surfaces as indicated by the various packages. The amount of distressing will vary and will be in random locations.

Finish Distressing includes the layering of finishes with a random rub through of the predominant finish color exposing the natural wood itself. A glaze application further enhances the aged look. All layers of rub through are protected with a clear, durable low-sheen topcoat of catalyzed finish. Heirloom Stain Finishes include speck distressing to complete the look.

RECOMMENDATION PRIOR TO PURCHASE:

View several door styles so that you may better understand and appreciate the effect various door profiles and detailing will have on the overall appearance of physical and finish distressing of Heirloom finishes.

See a full sample in the style, wood and finish you are considering in order to help visualize your cabinetry selection in its completed setting.

